Join Roger Williams University for an in-person ETC Regional Event!

A Problem Shared Is a Problem Halved: An Educational Technology Collaborative regional event at Roger Williams University!

Prior to 2020, classroom technology hardware solutions and support at many of our institutions were primarily focused on onsite teaching, learning and working models. As we all faced the challenges of Covid, we needed to identify the current needs of our institutions and seek innovative solutions to meet them. The lessons learned during that time show the overall value of collaborative and remote technology hardware and support solutions.

This free event at Roger Williams University in beautiful Bristol, Rhode Island will offer opportunities to network with colleagues who have similar roles, see some innovative hardware, and learn more about what the Educational Technology Collaborative has to offer!
